

WAYNE LANHAM

KBR

An activated reservist for Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom, Wayne spent six months in Iraq with the U.S. Navy in 2003. Deactivated in September of that year, he returned to Iraq in October employed by KBR and has remained on assignment in Iraq, Romania, and Poland since.

As the Senior Project Manager since August of 2016, Wayne provides management for supported sites in Iraq, overseeing base life support functions while addressing logistics, staffing, and operations. Earlier in 2016, Wayne supported NATO exercise Anakonda-16 as the LOGCAP Project Manager in Poland. Prior to this assignment and from March of 2014, Wayne was the Project Manager for construction of the Aegis Ashore Missile Defense Site at Naval Support Facility Deveselu, Romania, until the Technical Capability Demonstration of the system in late 2015.

Wayne received a Bachelor of Arts from Western Kentucky University in 1980, a Danforth Fellowship in the same year, and a Master of Arts and a Master of Philosophy from Columbia University in 1981 and 1984 respectively.

He resides with his wife Annette at their home in Asbury Park, New Jersey. Their daughter Elizabeth, their son Stephen, his wife Jennifer and their children also live in New Jersey.
